The Rationality of Emotions

Seminar SS 2000

Location: K24/21
Time: Wednesdays 8 - 10

Outline

Emotions and rationality often are seen as polar opposites. In this seminar, we draw on literature from both economics and psychology to understand whether this view is warranted. As suggested by the title of this seminar announcement, our working hypothesis is that emotions are indeed rational in a sense that will be made precise. The seminar will be conducted in English.
