

Course Name: FIN 204 – Money and Banking

Instructor: Stankov

Semester: Spring 2008

What is the primary strength of this course?

- Explains difficult concepts
- Drill concepts
- Uses good examples
- Clearly dedicated to the job
- Being able to print out slides helps us a lot
- Good teacher
- The fact that it has useful textbook
- Well taught, clear outline
- The instructor made his lectures more organized. Got much better but still he is not able to explain difficult concepts.
- I cannot see any

What is the primary weakness of this course?

- The powerpoint presentations could be more detail, i.e. explaining graphs, and also homework are usually harder than the material in class
- Relate more to the teacher
- Material is boring so the 3 hour class is very hard to sit through
- The crowd that doesn't contribute to the discussion
- Does not accept the possible new ideas about the concept. His way of grading is weird
- He is too young to be a teacher, he is not able to answer practical questions as he probably doesn't have enough experience. His lectures are weak but he requires perfect answers (in other words – he wants much more than he actually gives us)
