

Course Name: FIN204 – Money and Banking

Instructor: Stankov

Semester: Spring 2009 – Final

What is the primary strength of this course?

- Petar is good at communicating concepts in simple way to understand
- Petar is a Boss man
- Instructor flexibility
- Its interesting b/c of the current state of the economy
- Clear outline and method of evaluating
- The teacher is curious and gives a chance to every student – the teacher has real teaching skills
- Good reader and slides
- The current environment of the economy make things more applicable

What is the primary weakness of this course?

- Blank Material
- Material
- Its long and sometimes boring
- Course topics were already thought in macro and micro economy. A lot topics were repeated.
- Topics are for some of them already covered in macro class
- The sessions are little slow. The exams are just multiple choice which I don't like. It does not show what one really knows

What would you change about this course?

- I would try to remove parts that are already covered by other subjects in order to make independent